

A scatter plot on a light gray background with a white grid. The x-axis is represented by a thick horizontal line at the bottom. The y-axis is a vertical line. Data points are plotted as small black dots. There is a dense cluster of points near the x-axis, with one point slightly above the others. There are also two distinct points at higher y-values, one near the top and one in the middle.

Semester